BOULANGER'S TRAGIC SUICIDE

Over the Grave of His Dead Mistress.

Revolution in Guatemala Yet in Progress.

Boulanger Suicides.

By Cable and Associated Press.

BRUSSELS, Sept. 30.—General Boulanger committed suicide yesterday. The suicide occurred at the tomb of Mme. De Bonnemaine, his mistress, who died here recently. Boulanger committed suicide about noon. He stood alone by the grave of his mistress for some time, when an attendant who stood near by suddenly heard a sharp report in that direction. Rushing to the spot, the attendant found General Boulanger lying dead upon the ground with a revolver clenched in his right hand. Examination of the body showed the dead man had placed the weapon in his right ear and fired the shot.

The affair is causing great excitement here and some commotion among the General's followers in Paris. The police and the dead man's friends here have taken possession of his lodgings. The General's position, financial and political, has been getting blacker and blacker recently. He had no hope for the future and his remaining friends were few and becoming colder as the once famous general dropped more and more out of public notice. There is no doubt the General was conscious of these facts and they preyed upon his mind. Coupled to this was the morbid love or infatuation which he had for his dead mistress, to whom he was undoubtedly greatly attached.

The body of the dead man was taken to his late residence in this city.

PANAMA, Sept. 30.—The suicide of General Boulanger caused a great sensation in this city and nothing else is talked of. Members of the Patriotic League talk of giving a public funeral for the General and they propose to inter his remains in France. It is believed this will lead to serious disturbances.

Guatemala Revolution.

By Associated Press.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 30.—The following is published here this morning from the City of Mexico: Dispatches received in this city from Newton late Tuesday afternoon says a thousand armed men are marching from Quetzaltenango on the city of Guatemala, which is still under martial law. The work of executing the men who took part in the recent revolt is still continuing.

It is rumored in Guatemala that Toledo, President Barillas', Private Secretary, who left the city a few days ago on a government mission, was assassinated while en route, as nothing has been heard of him.

They demand full indemnity to Chili for the silver valued at 125,000 pounds sterling. This money is now held in the Bank of London.

A Broker's Progress.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Gould and Huntington have a great railway deal in view. The competitors in the grain traffic now of the Southwestern system, which includes the Missouri-Pacific, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and Texas-Pacific and branch lines, are the Atchison, Rock Island, Chicago and Alton, Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, Northwestern, St. Paul and branch lines.

If, by being able to make connection with New Orleans, referred to by Mr. Gould in Saturday's inspired interview, the Missouri Pacific and Central Pacific systems will be enabled to lay down grain at New Orleans for the same price that the other Grangers' roads do in Chicago, it stands to reason that the grain traffic of pretty much the entire Southwest will be diverted to the Southwestern system, as tidewater is reached at New Orleans, whereas it is 1,000 miles from Chicago. Ocean freights, too, are proverbially lower from New Orleans than from New York.

Huntington can add to the great grain-carrying trade of the Southwest the transcontinental traffic from California over the Southern Pacific. The connection at Memphis referred to by Mr. Gould would bring the Southwestern system in close relations with the Richmond Terminal, which owes $9,000,000 floating debt; and if Mr. Gould saw fit to go to its assistance the Southwestern system might extend its control to this company, thus including all the railroads in the Southern belt of country, except the Louisville and Nashville.

Mr. Gould, in planning a railway deal, usually starts by reducing everything to a cheap basis, so that new connections may be acquired economically, and this is alleged to be the explanation of his policy in the Missouri-Pacific.

Railroad Wrecker.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Dow Jones & Company Agency says: We are told on excellent authority that after Morgan accepted the trusteeship of the Union Pacific plan and the supineness of the Gould people became apparent, a conference of leading bankers was held, at which it was decided the plan must be made a success at all hazards, because a failure would be a great calamity. It was after this, the President of the American Securities and Trust Company came out publicly and directed attention to the apathy of the Gould people, which, it is said, finally forced Gould into making a subscription to the notes.

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—The subscription to the Union Pacific funding plan is sufficient to pay off all the company's floating debt. The company has now over $4,000,000 notes authorized, which can be issued if the necessity calls for it. It can be stated authoritatively that Drexel, Morgan & Co. do not receive a penny as commission for financing the company.

Chute Discharged.

Special to the GAZETTE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 30.—Judge Murphy of the Superior Court, in passing upon the writ of habeas corpus sued out by Richard Chute, discharged the latter from custody.

Chute, who is a well-known politician, on Thursday last was fined $500 and was sentenced to five days in the county jail by presiding Judge Wallace of the Superior Court for ignoring the subpoenas of the Grand Jury to appear before them and give testimony which, it is understood, was wanted in connection with the investigation of scandals affecting the last Legislature.

It is to be hoped that the habeas corpus case will be decided in the favor of the Goulds.

Now, therefore, I do call a convention at the city of Carson, Nevada, on Friday, the 9th day of October, 1891, at 11 o'clock A. M. for the purposes:

First, of considering the best measure of enforcing the policy adopted by the Salt Lake Congress with reference to the action of the Federal Congress, and,

Second, for the purpose of considering the capabilities of the various portions of the State of Nevada with reference to water rights, water storage, irrigation and the reclamation of arid lands.

The convention will be a mass convention composed of all those interested in the subject of water storage, irrigation and the reclamation of arid lands, and a general call is hereby issued to all so interested to attend.

Particular request is made that competent men from each county and section of the State should present to the convention written articles descriptive of its resources, facilities for water storage, its system of water rights, the prevailing system of reclamation and the extent to which such reclamation can be increased.

It is designed to publish such communications later on in the report of the proceedings of the convention.

The subject of the District Irrigation Bill passed by the last Legislature will also be considered and fully discussed and measures suggested for its amendment and improvement.

It is to be hoped that the various counties will visit with each other, both in the size and intelligence of their delegations and in their careful preparation of information relating to their resources, and that the convention may by the wisdom of its actions lead to the erection of an efficient machinery by which the unanimous voice of seventeen States and Territories may be brought to bear upon National legislation.

"CAN we make it rain?" is today one of the most important questions engrossing the attention of practical scientists. As is well known, there are millions of acres of land in the valleys and plains of our western territory, embracing portions of ten States, which are at present nothing but arid desert wastes for want of rain. Irrigation has been successfully employed for many years in limited portions of this region, and whenever this has been done the result has been the production of enormous crops, and the wilderness has literally been made to blossom as the rose. But irrigation is expensive, and the supply of water available for that purpose is limited, so unless we can draw a supply sufficient for the needs of vegetation from the clouds there is no hope for the redemption of that region.

With even a moderate rainfall, it would become one of the most productive portions of our country. Recently the Department of Agriculture at Washington has been conducting rain-making experiments in western Texas, under the management of General Robert G. Dyrenforth, which have been remarkably successful and give promise of wonderful results. In the October number of the North American Review General Dyrenforth gives the practical details of his operations and the success attending them. In the same number of the Review, Professor Simon Newcomb, LL. D., of Washington, gives the scientific ground upon which the Agricultural Department bases its expectations of success.

GENERAL McNULTA, formerly receiver of the Wabash railroad, says that he will not be a candidate for a place on the Interstate Commerce Commission. He added: "To render this commission efficient many changes must be made in the law as at present constructed by the railroad companies and the public. It is wholly impracticable in many features and cannot be enforced. Many evils sought to be remedied have been changed in form only, aggravated instead of alleviated and made national instead of local. Before the Interstate law multitudes of small shippers and numerous localities got the benefit of secret rates; now these favors are given to a few, but in such enormous sums that they control the commerce of the country. The Commission now is a magnificent battery with blank cartridges."

FOR some weeks the pessimist's view of the European situation has been industriously presented. It has seemed at times as though war was inevitable. By turns it was Russia, France, Germany and England which were doing something that must lead to an outbreak. An optimist has taken the stand now in the person of Chancellor Caprivi, best known to fame as the successor of Bismarck in the management of German affairs. Caprivi is not only peacefully inclined himself, but his imperial master is averse to war. No other sovereign wanted to disturb the profound peace in which Europe now rests. This view is good until another is presented.

A CURIOUS and interesting feature of the new pilgrimage to land in the fertile territory which Uncle Sam is gradually wheedling away from the Indians is the enormous number of women boomers. Fully twenty per cent of the claimants of the newly opened lands are women, mounted on horseback and armed. And they don't use side-saddles, either. There is something in the contemplation of a wild, free life like this which must make the pulses of a Massachusetts school-ma'am beat more quickly than usual, and cause her eyes to sparkle behind her spectacles.

Wintery Weather.

The wind blew cold and biting from the east last night, and the dark, lowering clouds indicated storm. Before daylight this morning a light dash of snow was sifted down, and this morning the awnings and sidewalk in shaded places looked quite wintery in their white coats.

BUSHELS OF NICKELS.

The Daily Harvest Upon the Street-Car Lines of a Great City.

Almost fifty thousand nickels are almost handed over to the street-car conductors of Philadelphia by as many passengers, says the Record of that city. Of course the traction company gets the bulk of these five-cent pieces, and the people's line is second in the number of half dimes, the pockets of its conductors needing repairs every few days.

The gathering and return to circulation of the coins paid for fares is an interesting and quick process, for today you might have a nickel that yesterday you paid for conveyance. All day long a brace of counters is kept busy in the various street-car depots counting and examining thousands of coins. They are then loaded in wagons and sent to the office of the sub-treasury, in the rear of the custom house building. These teams make a line on Library street every morning, and it takes no little time to carry the bags into the sub-treasury. Detectives accompany these wagons from the depots and wait till the coin is safely stored.

The traction company takes in an average sixteen thousand nickel pieces a day, but there are special occasions when this figure is counted a small day's receipts. The People's railway gets from three to five hundred dollars in five-cent pieces; other railroads get nickels in proportion to the traffic they carry. A day's receipts, strange to say, often include a greater number of dimes than the half coin which represents one fare. The dime savings banks, by the way, have considerably lessened the number of ten-cent pieces in the sub-treasury's receipts. Barrels of pennies must also be gotten rid of, but big money is rather scarce.

When the sub-treasury receives the thousands of nickels they are examined and counted in a jiffy in this way: They are placed on a board that contains twenty-five grooves in which are brass slats. The coins are laid in a line between the slats, the capacity of the board being fifty dollars. Other coins are numbered in the same way, and the four ladies who do the work count thousands of dollars in a short time. Then comes the return to circulation. Continually Capt. Walters gets requisitions from banks, stores and factories in this city and surrounding states for thousands of dollars in nickels. These houses need the coins for customers, the latter exchange them to other people, and eventually the coins get back to the street-car companies and to the sub-treasury.

AN ENGLISH HERO.

He Saves His Would-Be Rescuer from a Warty Grave.

An exciting story of the rescue from drowning of a Japanese, by an Englishman whose life the Japanese himself had set out to save, is told in a Japanese paper, the Kobe Shimbun. The Englishman was a resident of Tokio. Bearing on his way to Yokohama, and finding no ferryboat, owing to the swollen state of the river, he determined to swim across with his clothing in bundle tied on his head.

The daring attempt attracted a crowd of sightseers, one of whom, observing that the stranger was apparently in difficulty, plunged in and swam to his rescue. The Japanese was a good swimmer, but the waters ran swiftly, his strength gave out, and he was carried down-stream. Then arose a cry from the spectators, for they saw that the Japanese was going to sink.

By this time the Englishman had almost reached the opposite bank, but when he heard the cries of the crowd he turned about, and seeing the drowning Japanese, he again faced the current, and coming up with the drowning man, caught him with one arm, and swimming with the other hand he brought him ashore amid the cheers of the crowd.

"How chivalrous was his action!" exclaims the Japanese journalist in conclusion. "His name we know not, but he has our highest admiration."

CAUGHT ON BOTH SIDES.

Unpleasant Predicament Into Which a Too Talkative Lady Fell.

A good story is told in the Stuttgart Neue Musik Zeitung concerning one of the most eminent German actresses and a theatrical critic equally well known to fame. A number of ladies and gentlemen were the other day traveling together in a railway carriage from Dresden to Leipzig. Only two of the passengers knew each other, but the conversation became general, and the Court theater at Dresden became the subject of discussion. One lady, who had been present the evening before at the representation of "Euryanthe" was loud in her expressions of disapproval. "Worse than all," she exclaimed, "that Mme. Schroder is much too old for her part; her singing is becoming unbearable! Don't you think so, too?" she asked, turning to the gentleman next to her. "Would you not rather tell all this to Mme. Schroder, herself? She is sitting opposite to you," he replied, coldly. After the general silence which followed this remark, the critical lady turned to the actress with many confused apologies. "It is that horrid critic, Schmieder, who has influenced my judgment concerning your singing. I believe it is he who is always writing against me. He must be a most disagreeable and pedantic person." "Had you not better tell this to M. Schmieder himself?" calmly asked the actress; "he is sitting next to you."

Convincing Argument.

A well-known Massachusetts judge, when at the bar, once obtained the acquittal of a client charged with selling liquor on Sunday by the following address to the jury: "Gentlemen of the jury, you have heard the evidence that my client had a pint bottle full of whisky, from which he sold a drink at eleven o'clock on Sunday morning—at eleven o'clock Sunday morning, gentlemen of the jury, a bottle full of whisky—which he must have purchased over night and had in his possession until eleven o'clock in the morning. Now, gentlemen, look at my client; there he sits. Can you say on your oaths that such a poor, miserable, ragged, besotted, low down wretch as that could keep a bottle full of whisky from midnight Saturday until eleven o'clock Sunday morning?"

In Its Worst Form—"White Swelling" Cured.

The remarkable effect of Hood's Sarsaparilla in the following case illustrates the power of this medicine over all blood diseases:

"My son, 7 years old, had a white swelling come on his right leg below the knee, which contracted the muscles so that his leg was drawn up at right angles. Friends lanceted the swelling, which discharged freely, but did not help him materially. I considered him a Confirmed Cripple.

I was about to take him to Cincinnati for an operation, expecting his leg would have to be taken off, and began giving him Hood's Sarsaparilla in order to get up his strength. The medicine woke up his appetite, and soon places of bone were discharged from the sore.

EQUALIZATION.

What the State Board of Nevada Is Doing.

The Board of Assessors and Equalization are hard at work studying the assessment roll of the different counties. Attorney-General Torreyson and Secretary of State Grey are particularly industrious in the work they are called upon to do. In the Monday session they transacted the following business:

Hon. T. H. Wells appeared in behalf of the Silver State Land and Loan Company, and numerous other petitioners, and argued that such lands which have not been listed and certified by the general government to this State and wherein petitioners have pending applications to purchase have been illegally assessed and should be stricken from the rolls of Lincoln and Nye counties, wherein such lands are situated. Taken under advisement by the Board.

On motion of O. H. Gray, the Secretary was directed to obtain from the C. P. R. R. Co., the number of cattle, horses and sheep shipped to and from points in Nevada during the year ending June 1891; the names of consignors and consignees; the number of pounds shipped from points in Nevada during the past two years and the names of shippers, and the points from where shipped. Adopted.

J. A. Plummer, District Attorney of Elko county, asked for a date to be heard in behalf of his county, and the Board set Thursday at 10 o'clock A. M. for such hearing.

The Ormsby county assessment roll was then taken up for equalization.

AARON D. TREADWAY.

Known throughout Nevada as former Treadway. The well known pioneer of the State whose picture is shown below was born in Connecticut, March 1, 1815, and is now in his 77th year, and as well preserved in youthful appearance as men usually are at 40. He early took the advice of Greeley by going west, but first went south to Macon, Georgia, and remained there about four years when he went to Illinois. In 1847 he went to the Mexican war as First Lieutenant of Company I, Fifth Illinois Regiment, and returned to Alton, Illinois, in 1848. In '49 he went to California and lived principally in Sacramento until 1859 when he came to Nevada. He settled in Carson and has resided there ever since, and has become known to thousands through his ownership of the pleasure park that bears his name. He is a genial soul and quite a character in his way, that makes him a prominent figure, and which he would have been in any life, had fate cast him elsewhere. He is noted for his quaint expressions, and while he says no claim to scholarship, he uses language that is very expressive and words that convey the meaning very forcibly.

He used to be a regular patron of the Nevada State Fairs, always bringing some product of his farm that would take a prize; but of late years his enthusiasm has waned and in explanation he says, "the committee awarded me a $3 premium for a pig; but I don't value that as much as I would had they simply awarded me

HONORABLE MENTION.

That wouldn't have cost them anything, and would have had more merit in it for me."

Uncle Tred, as he is familiarly called, is a character in his way. He is fond of his toddy, but seldom if ever drinks enough to hurt him or strain his brain. The reason perhaps is that he drinks a little water both before and after the whisky. The writer once asked him why he always drank water before the whisky and he answered: "Well, my son, you see if I happen to get hold of shiftless whisky I have it well entertained."

"But," said the lawyer, "you have cause of action for the outrage, and can recover damages for the distress of mind and the interruption to your business. Have you any witnesses besides the conductors?"

"No," said the citizen, "none but passengers that I didn't know and don't know where to find them."

"That's bad," said the lawyer, "But can't you think of some one who is knowing to the circumstance?"

"Yes," said the citizen, "The agent at Battle Mountain knew of it, for he told me on the third day that they wouldn't allow me on the road for that purpose."

"That's good," said the lawyer.

"Now he is a good, square man that will regard his oath if he is subpoenaed as a witness?"

"Oh yes," said the citizen, "He's a good man. Everybody knows that. His

NAME IS BILLY WESTERFIELD.

You know him."

"Oh, the devil! What are you giving me?" said the lawyer, "Billy Westerfield hasn't been a railroad agent since he left Battle Mountain 20 years ago. What do you mean?"

"Well," said the citizen, "He's a good man. Everybody knows that. His name is BILLY WESTERFIELD.

You know him."

Mrs. Graham's Cucumber and Elder Flower Cream.

Is not a cosmetic in the sense in which that term is popularly used, permanently beautiful. It creates a smooth, moist, velvety skin, and by daily use gradually makes the complexion several shades whiter. It is a constant protection from the effects of the sun, and when washed off leaves the skin smooth and soft, thus preventing the formation of wrinkles. It gives the freshness, clearness and smoothness of skin that a young ought to use; it also gives a more youthful appearance to any lady, and that permanently. It contains no acid, powerfully antiseptic, and is a great aid in removing freckles, and blackheads will never come while you use it. It cures the face far more rapidly than any other cream. It builds up the skin tissues, and thus prevents the formation of wrinkles.
